

Remarks by Mr. Raffi Gregorian,
Director and Deputy to the Under-Secretary-General, United Nations Office of Counter-Terrorism

Third High-Level Conference of Counter-Terrorism Experts (2012) 12 06 2012

proposed by Secretary-General Guterres in his report on
- aims, in part, to bring together the peace and sustainable development agendas, and ensure that we comprehensively address the underlying conditions that can lead to terrorism and violent extremism through prevention.

It also calls for counter-terrorism responses to be firmly grounded in international law, including international human rights law, and to reflect age- and gender-responsive approaches.

Let us all work together with renewed determination to build a safer, more resilient,
