In general terms, the principle of universal jurisdiction is intended to establish effective mechanisms to ensure accountability and prevent impunity for crimes against humanity at times when the State concerned is slow to administer justice.

With regard to national legislation, the Moroccan judiciary is deemed to be the entity competent for prosecuting any individual of any nationality who has committed an offence on Moroccan soil. That is because, under chapter 10 of the Criminal Code, criminal legislation continues to be an aspect of State sovereignty. The Criminal Code provides that national Moroccan legislation applies to anyone on Moroccan territory, including nationals, foreigners and stateless persons, barring the exceptions set forth in domestic and international public law.

Accordingly, Moroccan law takes a particular approach to the jurisdiction of Moroccan courts over offences committed abroad and relations with foreign judicial authorities. The relevant provisions are set out in book 7 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Paragraph 1 of article 704 provides that Moroccan criminal law governs offences committed on Moroccan territory. Paragraph 2, however, enables the Moroccan judiciary to exercise competence in respect of any offence if one component thereof was committed on Moroccan territory (and the offence as a whole is treated as though it had occurred on Moroccan territory). In paragraph 3, the jurisdiction of Moroccan courts to consider the principal act is extended to all associated acts of complicity or concealment, even if they were committed outside the country and by foreigners.

Similarly, in accordance with the territorial principle in criminal law, Moroccan criminal law applies to Moroccan ships and aircraft wherever they are located, except for cases that are subject to foreign law by virtue of international law. That provision is enshrined in article 705 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which provides that Moroccan courts are competent to consider

With a view to strengthening jurisdiction over Moroccan citizens wherever they may be, Moroccan law gives Moroccan courts the option of prosecuting any Moroccan who has committed, outside Morocco, a major or minor offence (articles 707 and 708 of the Code of Criminal Procedure)

Similarly, Moroccan courts have been given competence when a major offence is committed against a Moroccan citizen outside the territory of Morocco (article 710 of the Code of Criminal Procedure). For the purposes of the competence of Moroccan courts, such acts are downgraded to a minor offence in the case of an act against State security, the counterfeiting of a State seal, the counterfeiting or forging of national cash or banknotes circulating legally in Morocco, or a major offence against staff or diplomatic or consular missions or public offices of Morocco.

As regards efforts to combat terrorism and prevent impunity, Moroccan law adopted the principle of comprehensive universal jurisdiction in respect of terrorism in 2015. Specialized Moroccan courts were thus given the power to prosecute and put on trial any Moroccan or foreign national who has committed a terrorist offence outside Morocco, whether as main perpetrator, accomplice or accessory, and whether or not that offence was intended to harm Morocco or its interests (article 711(1) of the Code of Criminal Procedure; chapang (en-GMCI26/Ing (e26.67 Tm0 G{o384.67 Tm
