In a Code Cable dated 10 May 2016, the Under-Secretary-General of the Department of Peacekeeping Operations (USG/DPKO) provided strategic guidance to UNOCI on the implementation of key aspects of the mandate as set out in resolution 2284. The USG/DPKO instructed the Mission to prepare its exit strategy and the drawdown of uniformed and civilian personnel.⁷

27. Security Council Resolution 2284 stated that UNOCI would not exist beyond 1 July 2017. With respect to the PIO, resolution 2284 specifically referred to a reduced and very limited mandate that did not prioritize website maintenance.

- iv. Whether there was a violation of notification procedure.
- b. Whether the contested decision was tainted by improper motives.
- c. Whether the Applicant is entitled to termination indemnity

The Tribunal will address these issues below.

Whether the deci s appointment due to the abolition of the post violated the applicable rules.

- 39. As expressly stated in staff rule 4.13(c), United Nations staff members have no expectation of renewal of their fixed-term appointments. The evidentiary burden of proving a legitimate expectancy of renewal lies upon the applicant, who is required to show that the Administration made an express and firm commitment in writing to extend his or her fixed term appointment.¹⁵ No such showing has been made in this case. Conversely, it is shown that starting from the February 2016 Transition Plan, the Mission had no intention vq"o ckpvckp"vj g"Crrrkecpvou"r quv'and proceeded with the downsizing.
- 40. To the extent the Applicant bases his claim on the UNOCI budget, the Tribunal recalls that the availability of budgetary funds only authorizes the O kuukqpøu"expenditures in connection with certain posts but does not create a right on the part of the incumbent to have the post retained. The Tribunal, therefore, agrees with the Respondent that the 4 May 2016 Report of the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions (ACABQ) did not require UNOCI to renew his appointment. 41. It has, however, no import for the legality of abolishment of a sole post of specific level and functionality, as in this case. Similarly, of no relevance are the Applicants complaints about the tensions that his employment with UNOCI had caused in his family.

42. Turning on to the question of notice of non-extension, the Tribunal concedes that indeed, there is no legal notice requirement with respect to fixed-term appointments, which expire automatically on the expiration date specified in the letter of appointment. The absence of such requirement is unfortunate but, as observed by the Tribunal, the prevalent practice is to give such a notice. In the present case, a notice of one month was entirely appropriate, considering the fix-term nature and short duration of the appointment; ȳ g"eqpvgzv'qh"ȳ g"O kukqpơu" downsizing, which had even earlier signaled the reduction of posts; and the fact that the Applicant was a national staff member, not exposed to a total uprooting. The circumstance that the notice would have been delivered after the working hours is immaterial.

Whether the contested decision was tainted by improper motives

43. A non-renewal decision must not be vitiated by extraneous factors or any improper motives. The evidentiary burden of proving that the non-renewal of a fixed-term appointment was arbitrary or motivated by bias, prejudice or improper motive is on the staff member who makes the allegations. ¹⁷ In the present case it appears that the Applicant maintains the suggestion made in the management evaluation request, that the non-renewal was influenced by the deteriorated labour tgrckqpu"dgw ggp"CRGN"cpf "WP QE Kau"Ugpkqt"O cpci go gpv0'Vj ku"r tqr qukv
