

Ladies and gentlemen,

I would like to commend Secretary-General Guterres for calling this summit.

We need to get global food systems fit for the future if we want to feed a rapidly losing the space and capacity to do so.

In this make-or-break decade, humanity faces one overarching challenge: learning to live within planetary boundaries.

And let me be clear if we fail, the planet will still be there. It will be humanity

Let this summit be a crucial milestone on this journey.

Thank you.
