Madam President,

In the Middle East, innocent civilians still suffer from the disastrous consequences of terror attacks or the indiscriminate use of force. Men, women and children on all sides must be given a real chance to live in peace and in an atmosphere of home, within our own societies. Here, as well as at the regional or global level, "United in Diversity" must be our guiding principle.

We have to keep our work down to earth. We have to find answers on how best to that many regard as a menace. Ultimately, it is at the work place, at school, when
